

STARRING GREAT BRITAIN

A Premium Collection
2025

© Rachel Adams / The Times / News Licensing

WELCOME

As CEO of VisitBritain, I am pleased to introduce our Starring Great Britain – A Premium Collection 2025.

This collection is your gateway to premium travel across Britain, packed full of experiences handpicked by our expert team. We want to work with the travel trade to encourage visitors to explore more of Britain.

Our latest global marketing campaign ‘Starring GREAT Britain’ is harnessing the powerful draw of film and TV to tell the story of Britain today, putting our dynamic and diverse destinations in the spotlight. The premium directory shows why our destinations are the real star of the show, showcasing our outstanding premium offer across the nations and regions.

Travel to Britain is all about variety. Visitors can enjoy our rich history and heritage alongside world-class culture and culinary excellence all in one trip, whether exploring our vibrant cities, stunning countryside or coastal destinations.

The visitor experiences featured within this Premium Collection have been specially selected for their outstanding quality. Whether sitting back and taking in views of the British countryside from the luxury of the Belmond British Pullman, embarking on a lobster safari in the Bay of Llandudno in Wales or a stay at Edinburgh’s award-winning Balmoral Hotel, Britain offers exceptional experiences to meet expectations of every traveller.

I hope this collection inspires you to add new products to your itineraries as well as supports you to sell the very best of British luxury travel to your customers.

Best wishes,

Patricia Yates

Great Britain is also at the forefront of sustainable luxury tourism, offering eco-conscious travellers a range of responsible yet indulgent experiences. From farm-to-table dining and luxury eco lodges to heritage train services such as the Belmond British Pullman offering a green yet luxurious way to travel.

Britain is not just one place, of course, but a trio of distinct regions: England, Scotland, and Wales, each with its own personality and unique take on luxury with distinctly different experiences. In England, clients can enjoy London's 5-star hotels, Mayfair's exclusive boutiques, and countryside wellness retreats nestled amid charming villages and rolling hills. In Scotland, the adventure includes grand castle stays, fine dining, and exhilarating Highland treks. Meanwhile, Wales offers a more intimate luxury: explore its rugged coast on a coastal lobster safari, play a round at a boutique golf resort, or delve into history with private tours of ancient castles – all set in stunning, unspoiled landscapes.

In this guide, we have curated the finest and most prestigious experiences that Britain has to offer, ensuring that even your most discerning clients will be satisfied. It's time to make Great Britain the star of your show!

TRAVEL VISA INFORMATION

Visa

Most people coming to Britain and Northern Ireland will need a visa. Whether they need one depends on the purpose of the visa and their nationality.

Clients can check whether they need a visa and what type of visa here:

<https://www.gov.uk/check-uk-visa>

There is a cost for this, and it can be applied for three months before travel. Travellers can apply for a 6-month, 2-year, 5-year and 10-year visa.

More information on short-stay visas can be found on the official government website: <https://www.gov.uk/browse/visas-immigration/tourist-short-stay-visas>

Clients may also be able to apply for an Electronic Travel Authorisation (ETA) to visit Britain and Northern Ireland depending on their nationality. More information can be found below.

Electronic Travel Authorisation (ETA)

Visitors who do not currently need a visa for short stays will be required to apply for an ETA from mid-2025. More information on the ETA scheme can be found on the official government website:

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/electronic-travel-authorisation-eta>

The ETA is applicable for travel to Britain and Northern Ireland for up to six months for tourism, visiting family and friends, business or short-term study. Clients will also need an ETA if they are transiting through Britain and Northern Ireland.

- The ETA scheme replaced the electronic visa waiver from late 2023 for nationals of Bahrain, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the UAE
- Visitors from Jordan can no longer apply for an ETA. More information for visitors from Jordan can be found on the official gov.uk website:

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/visit-the-uk-if-youre-a-national-of-jordan>

From 8 January 2025, eligible citizens from non-European countries, including America, Canada, Australia and some Asian countries, such as Japan and South Korea, will be able to travel to Britain and Northern Ireland using an ETA – applications will open to nationals of these countries from 27 November 2024.

Clients can check when they can get an ETA on the official government website:

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/check-when-you-can-get-an-electronic-travel-authorisation-eta>

Visa and ETA Application

Please note that www.Gov.uk is the only official UK immigration website and provides all of the information necessary to successfully complete an application.

There have been reports of customers using non-Gov.uk websites to support their UK immigration applications. If clients have made use of these websites, please be aware of the following:

- Some non-Gov.uk websites deliberately attempt to deceive customers by making it appear as though they are an official part of the application process.
- These websites can pose a risk to a customer's security and data.
- They will often charge applicants extra, unnecessary fees in addition to any fees related to the official immigration application.
- The information included on these websites is not moderated by the Home Office and may be inaccurate or misleading.

If clients think they may have been a victim of a non-Gov.uk website seeking your data and/or money, please report this to Action Fraud:
