Summary

• In 2017 the UK welcomed a record 39.2 million inbound visits, 4% more than in 2016. There was also a record £24.5 billion spent in the UK – up 9% on 2016. This report looks at each of the UK regions to see the effect that this national result has had at the regional level.

  – Scotland saw an increase in both visits and spend in 2017 – both reaching new record levels. The USA – Scotland’s largest and most valuable market – had a 35% increase in visits between 2015 and 2017, spending 47% more than they did in 2012-2014.

  – After 4 consecutive years of growth, visits to Wales in 2017 were flat, but are still up 16% in the 3 years to 2017 (2015-17) compared to the 3 years before (2012-14). Inbound visitor spending to Wales fell 17% in 2017, compared to the spend record set in 2016, but remains up 15% over the longer term 3 years to 2017.

  – The North East saw a fall in visit numbers in 2017 (1%) while spend fell 42%, compared to the record set last year. Over the past 3 years, the North East has seen a 27% increase in visits and a 30% rise in inbound visitor spending. The top 5 generating markets to the North East have visit growth in the last 3 years (2015-2017), compared to the previous 3 year period.

  – North West saw visit numbers rise 11% to a record 3.1 million in 2017 – the first time there have been more than 3 million visits to the NW region. Spending too reached record levels of £1.6 billion. The North West’s most valuable market – USA – reported a 29% rise in spend in the last 3 years, setting a new record in 2017 (£143 million).

  – The number of visits to Yorkshire fell 2% in 2017 but inbound visits between 2015-2017 are 9% higher than the previous 3 year period. Visitors spent £567 million in Yorkshire in 2017. The number 1 market for Yorkshire in the last 3 years in terms of volume and value was the USA. Visits from this market were up 27% in 2017, while sending rose 44% on 2016 results.
Inbound visits set new records to the West Midlands in 2017. There were 2.3 million visits, with these visitors spending a combined £807 million in the area. While the West Midlands welcomes visitors for a range of purposes, in 2017 they reported the highest proportion of business visits of all regions and nations in this report with 2 out of every 5 visits to the area for business.

Compared to the record visits and spending set in 2016, results for 2017 show negative growth to the East Midlands. However, over the longer term 3 years to 2017, visit numbers have risen 24% vs 2012-14, while spending is up 9%. All of the top 5 markets to the East Midlands are in Europe - Poland, Irish Republic, Spain, Germany and France since 2015.

East of England visit numbers in 2017 were on par with 2016, but just enough to claim a new visits record although spend fell 5%. Of all the areas examined in this report the East of England had the highest proportion of visits to friends and relatives in 2017 – 45%.

Inbound visitor numbers to the South West grew 3% to a record 2.6 million in 2017 though spending was down 10%, compared to the record spent in 2016. Inbound visits to the South West are dominated by holiday and those visiting friends and relatives. Between 2015 and 2017 both inbound visits and spend to the South West have grown by 16%, compared to the previous 3 years.

2017 was the third consecutive year the South East hosted more than 5 million international visits, which rose 2% in 2017, although spend fell slightly by 3%.

London saw a 4% increase in visit numbers in 2017, while spend rose 14%. Both set new records. Over half of the visits to London in 2017 were for holiday.

• As part of the IPS in 2016, VisitBritain asked departing passengers about their day trips – which can be explored to give a fully picture of international tourism at the regional level. A link to this additional report is included on slide 34.

Day Visits and Day Trippers
Day Visits and Day Trippers

• While understanding where international visitors stay overnight, to complete the picture, we also need to be able to see about day trips – that is where inbound visitors visits, but do not stay overnight.

• During 2016, VisitBritain sponsored 2 questions in the IPS to understand this area in more detail.
  – How many day visits did you take from…(CITY / TOWN)?
  – Which towns were your five most recent day visits made to?

• Due the scale of the data, a separate report has been prepared to explore the day trip data at the regional level and to outline the characteristics of day trippers.

• The report is available on our website here:

  https://www.visitbritain.org/town-data

• This report focuses on day visits to and from the UK’s cities and towns.
Nations Share –
Long Term and Journey
Purpose
London has consistently attracted the largest share of visits - though pre 2008 the difference was not as marked as it has been in more recent years.

Since 2010, England (excl London) has held market share of around 42%, while Scotland has held 7%, rising to 8% in 2017.

Wales holds a 3% share of visits, while Northland Ireland holds 1%.
• London’s share of spend has been much more marked – with London’s share not below 50% since 2006.
• England (excl London) market share has shown the most variation in ranging from 39% more than 10 years ago to 32% in 2017.
• Scotland has constantly held a 8-9% share of spend while Wales has 2%.
• London held the largest share of UK holiday and Other visits in 2017, while England (excl London) leads the way with the highest share of business, VFR and study visits. The results for spending share are similar although London holds top spot for share of business spending.
• Scotland over indexes on holiday spend – with a 12% share of holiday visits, and 13% share of holiday spend.
Average spend and length of stay 2017

Journey purpose

- The average UK visit spend was £625 in 2017, but this varied from £486 from a VFR visit to £692 from those in the UK on holiday.
- It is clear study visitors have a very different profile to the other main purpose categories – driven by a long length of stay.
- Looking at average length of stay, VFR visitors stayed over a week, on average, in 2017, while a business visitor stayed only 4.0 nights.
- The UK average spend per night in 2017 was £86, but it is business visitors who spent the most per night (£152) vs. a VFR visitor typically spending only £50.

Appendix

• It is possible to find more detail about the UK’s inbound visits to our nations and regions, including the latest quarterly data from the International Passenger Survey, by exploring the Insights & Statistics pages of our website.

• The data source for all charts and tables is 2017 International Passenger Survey (IPS), by the Office for National Statistics (ONS).
  • The IPS is designed to be representative and statistically robust at national level. Therefore caution should be exercised when interpreting results, especially at regional, area and town level.
  • Because some visitors stay in multiple destinations during their trip the sum of visits to each area will add to more than the total sum of visits to the UK.
  • All spend is nominal and excludes the price of getting to the UK.
