

GREAT Britain

Our destination brand guidelines.
Brand Foundations

VERSION 1.0

Contents

01

Brand foundations

Our brand strategy on a page03

See Things Differently04

Brand personality05

Narrative angles07

Brand experience buckets08

Writing guidance09

Destination brand strategy on a page

BRAND OBJECTIVE	Position Britain as a welcoming, dynamic and diverse destination to be enjoyed today – not one day
BRAND PLATFORM (shared with GREAT)	See Things Differently
BRAND PERSONA (how we speak, look and act)	Twinkly-eyed insider guide Energy and welcome with a playful twist – we know Britain inside-out, new and old, and we're excited by you experiencing it all
BRAND NARRATIVE ANGLES (the way we land the brand platform)	Challenge convention We don't do stereotypically British. We find new, surprising stories to tell about our nation, or reimagine the old favourites.	Thought-provoking We gain our audience's attention by showing or telling them something they don't already know – we want to get people talking.	Celebrate diversity We are a nation of wonderfully distinctive regions, cultures, beliefs, lifestyles, orientations and traditions. We champion all positive perspectives on Britain's story.
BRAND EXPERIENCE BUCKETS (content pillars to bring the Britain brand story to life)	Unlimited Trails and Adventure Britain is made for exploration. From coastal paths and national parks to city trails and neighbourhood discoveries, there are so many ways to experience our nations and regions on the move. Whether hiking, cycling, paddling or simply following their curiosity, visitors uncover new perspectives, unexpected stories and sides of Britain they didn't know existed.	Cutting-Edge Culture Culture in Britain isn't just something that sits behind glass. It's something visitors can step into. Regional differences fuel Britain's creative spirit, shaping a culture rich in character and new perspectives. From grassroots creativity and emerging talent to world-famous film, festivals and live events, Britain is ready to immerse you!	Heritage Reimagined Britain is home to countless iconic landmarks, historic places, and enduring traditions, but its heritage is far from frozen in time. Across our nations and regions, centuries of history are continually reimagined and brought to life in fresh and modern ways. From historic buildings reinventing their purpose to immersive experiences that breathe new life into old stories, visitors discover Britain's past from new angles.
CAMPAIGN PLATFORM (our current consumer marketing campaign, underpinned by our brand strategy)	Starring GREAT Britain CTA: Visit the real star of the show

Our brand platform: See things differently

Britain's global appeal is built on a vibrant culture of original thinking. From Shakespeare to the Premier League, the Beatles to Charli XCX, Banksy to the Eden Project, we're a nation of innovators, always looking for a fresh and unconventional spin on life. And that spirit of innovation is captured in the brand platform 'See Things Differently'.

See Things Differently underpins all our brand communications. Here's what it means for our audiences:

Britain is always changing; a land that embraces difference and never stands still.

From coast to countryside, city to village, a kaleidoscope of destinations awaits — each with a warm local welcome that invites you back time and again.

And at just 874 miles from top to bottom, you'll find more creativity, energy and diversity in one place than anywhere else in the world.

We're all about unconventional ideas and refreshing new takes.

A place where cultures coalesce to reimagine what you thought you knew.

And it's all made possible by our creative thinkers, daring dreamers, and curious explorers – who take our guests to heart but don't take ourselves too seriously.

Whether you're here for a day, a month or a year, we're ready to help you make the most of every minute.

You can't help but see your world a little differently once you've experienced ours.

Help yourself to a big dollop of different and an extra slice of surprise.

So come, see things differently.

Brand persona

A twinkly-eyed insider guide

We radiate energy and welcome,
with a dash of playfulness.

We know Britain inside-out, and we're excited to share the new and best, iconic and offbeat.

In a sentence

Energy and welcome with a playful twist
– we know Britain inside-out, and we're excited by you experiencing it.

See Things Differently

What it is

Capturing the distinctive British spirit
Energetic/dynamic
Diverse (people, nations, experiences)
New takes from wider viewpoints
Feeling in the moment
Looking forward
Making shareable memories now
Contemporary culture
Surprising
Inviting Confident
Icons with a twist

What it isn't

Traditional, postcard views of Britain
Passive
Uniform
Long held views from narrow viewpoints
Seeing from afar
Only looking back
Describing memories later
Collections from the past
Only the expected
Distant
Arrogant
Traditional postcard icons

Our narrative angles

To help apply the See Things Differently brand platform to creative and content, we use a series of narrative angles. You can use these as thought-starters for creative work, and as filters when reviewing it. Everything we produce should demonstrate at least one of these principles:

Challenge convention

We don't do stereotypically British. We find new, surprising stories to tell about our nation, or reimagine the old favourites so that they feel fresh and relevant again. If an image or phrase feels clichéd, we avoid it.

Thought-provoking

We gain our audience's attention by showing or telling them something they don't already know – a new trend, unexpected angle, remarkable fact, or emotive human story. We want to get people talking.

Celebrate diversity

We are a nation of wonderfully distinctive regions, cultures, beliefs, lifestyles, orientations and traditions. We show, share and support that variety in our marketing, and champion all positive perspectives on Britain's story.

Our brand experience buckets

Combining our brand insights and narrative angles, we have created three ‘brand experience buckets’ – compelling reasons to visit Britain where we have a world class story to tell and a distinctive product offering. These are:

Unlimited Trails and Adventure

Britain is made for exploration. From coastal paths and national parks to city trails and neighbourhood discoveries, there are so many ways to experience our nations and regions on the move. Whether hiking, cycling, paddling or simply following their curiosity, visitors uncover new perspectives, unexpected stories and sides of Britain they didn't know existed.

Cutting-Edge Culture

Culture in Britain isn't just something that sits behind glass. It's something visitors can step into. Regional differences fuel Britain's creative spirit, shaping a culture rich in character and new perspectives. From grassroots creativity and emerging talent to world-famous film, festivals and live events, Britain is ready to immerse you!

Heritage Reimagined

Britain is home to countless iconic landmarks, historic places and enduring traditions, but its heritage is far from frozen in time. Across our nations and regions, centuries of history and stories are continually reimagined and brought to life in fresh and modern ways. From historic buildings reinventing their purpose to immersive experiences that breathe new life into old stories, visitors discover Britain's past from new angles.

Detailed story ideas have been built from the brand experience buckets, to form the content framework. Please contact your VisitBritain project lead for more information.

Writing guidance

When creating written content, we will need to consider how we write, the angles we write from and what content we write about. The guidance below explains how we write. Please refer to this guidance, the narrative angles and experience buckets to craft written communications.

Write like we talk

Our structure should feel unstructured. Our boundless enthusiasm and energy means we can wax lyrical with a long sentence that seems to go on and on as we get deeper into the subject, always full of passion and ideas. But then we stop. Because we've had an idea. What about this? Or that? Or even a little of something else? These short sentences offer spontaneity and really help generate warmth. This should feel like a conversation.

Suggestions and questions

We know all there is to know about your time in Britain, but we always suggest rather than insist. We're not here to lecture. Instead we spark the imagination with entertaining stories and possibilities. Our infectious, offbeat energy is about inviting people in. So find out what interests them. Ask questions. Even in a headline. Get your audience thinking about what they can do even beyond our suggestions.

Engage your reader

We know these lands like the back of our hands – including all the latest openings and trends. We're across the local customs, the varied accents, the many different histories and cultures that make up Britain.

Swap formal for normal

Remember we want this to be a conversation. To sound like everything we write is coming from a genuine person (twinkly-eyed guide) not a corporation. Does it sound like language you'd ever actually use face-to-face? If not, then it's probably wrong. And formal words are often the culprit. So watch out for those. Oh, and one more thing. Feel free to start a sentence with a 'But' or a 'Because'. There's no rule against it. Some formal types insist it's not good grammar, but we do it all the time when we talk and it will make our writing feel more natural.

Surprise and delight

Bring the experience to life. Curate the knowledge you wish to share. It's never about delivering as many facts as you can. It's always about choosing the juiciest of wisdoms that your audience will relay to friends.

Find beauty in the details

This will take some research. But dig deep. It will be worth it. We have over 800 castles in Britain, so your job is to find the unique story in each one. Don't just retell the events, dive into the lesser-known details, overlooked characters, or unexpected perspectives that can bring the story to life.

Brand@visitbritain.org

